JUDGE PARKER'S LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE IS NOW ISSUED

Candidate Asks for Suffrages of People Who Believe in Government of Law and Not of Caprice---Declares for Economy Instead of Extravagance.

Esopus, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Judge Alton B. Parker, Democratic candidate for president, tonight issued his formal reply in response to the notification of the Democratic committee. The letter is as follows:

To the Honorable Champ Clark and others, Committee, etc.:

In my response to your committee of notification, I expressed my regret that I felt it my duty to refer to some matters not mentioned in the letter, I desire that these be considered as incorporated herein. My regret that lack of space prevents specific reference to them at this time, however, again to refer to my notes there expressed in the gold standard, economy and the tariff, I believe better to said standard, and to express my appreciation of the action of the committee in replying my communication upon that subject.

Grave public disasters are pressing for decision. The Democratic party appeals to the people with confidence that its position on these questions will be approved and endorsed at the polls. While the issues thus presented are momentous, some of them of long standing in the public mind, among them are tariff reform, the preservation of honest administration and honesty in the public service, I shall address myself under these and some others within the necessarily prescribed limits of this letter.

Imperialism.

While I presented my views at the notification proceeding concerning the vital issue, the overwhelming importance of this question impels me to refer to it again. The issue is only perhaps referred to as Constitutionalism vs. Imperialism.

If we would retain our underlying constitutional rights, amongst which we cannot permit or tolerate, at any rate or for any purpose, the exercise of unconstitutional power by the executive, we must, and we do, believe. We should be ever mindful of the words of Washington, "Liberty ought to be preserved by maintaining constitutional equilibrium and a just division of political power."

Already the national government has become centralized beyond any point contemplated or anticipated by the framers of the constitution. Now, from every quarter, we hear the cry, "Give us more of the president." It has developed from year to year, until it almost equals that of every monarchy. While the growth of our country and the complexity of its material interests may seem to furnish a plausible reason for the centralization of power, yet these considerations afford the most potent argument why the executive should not be permitted to encroach upon the other departments of the government, and why some legislative or other powers should be exercised by the people themselves.

The magnitude of the country and its diversity of interests and population, together with a determined ambitious people, demand a decentralized government and strong executive, unmindful of constitutional limitations and filled with the lust of power, to go out to any extremity of authority, and the disregard or disparagement of personal rights before the situation could be fully appreciated or the people be advised.

The issue of imperialism which has been thrust upon the country involves a decision whether the home of the free or the rule of individual caprice shall govern. The principle of imperialism may give rise to brilliant, startling, dashing results, but the principle of Democracy holds in check the brilliant executive and subjects him to the sober, conservative control of the people.

The people of the United States stand at the parting of the ways. Shall we follow the footsteps of our fathers along the paths of peace, prosperity and contentment, guided by the inspiring spirit of the constitution which they framed for us, or shall we follow other and strange paths, which have changed by all following blindly new lights, which, though appealing with brilliancy to the imagination and ambition, may prove a will o' the wisp, leading us into difficulties from which it may be impossible to extricate ourselves without lasting injury to our national character and institutions?

JUDGE ALTON B. PARKER

The Tariff Issue.

Tariff reform is one of the cardinal principles of the Democratic party, and the necessity for it, instead of growing less as the present time, it should be emphasized and made in the interests of the people.

The Dingley tariff is unjustifiable in many of its rates and in its general purpose and accomplishment. Protection should be extended only to industries which need it, and should be so adjusted as to secure the home market to the producer of articles which can be profitably produced in this country, but not to allow him to add to the price of his product the amount of the tariff tax, when the article is sold in competition with the same article produced in other countries where there is no tariff. Protection should be so adjusted as to secure the home market to the producer of those

In the words of our platform we demand a revision and a reduction of the tariff by the friends of the protected, and for the common weal, and not by the friends of the abuses, that entrenched behind Republican majorities.

It is true that the Republicans who do not profit in their platform that the Dingley tariff needs the slightest alteration, are likely to retain a majority of the federal senate throughout the next presidential term, and, therefore, if they choose, block every attempt at legislative relief. But it should be remembered that the Republican party includes many reasonable and I believe it will shrink from defying the popular will expressed unmistakably and peremptorily at the ballot box.

The people demand relief from existing conditions. Since the last Democratic administration the cost of living has grievously increased. Those having fixed incomes have suffered keenly; those living on wages, if there has been any increase, know that such increase has not kept pace with the advance in the cost of living, including rent and the necessaries of life. Many today are out of work, unable to secure employment. [illegible] these conditions, in so far as is in our power, should be our earnest endeavor.

Trust Remedies.

I alluded in my earlier response to the remedy, which in my judgment, can effectually be applied against monopolies, and the assurance was then given that if existing laws, including both statute and common law, proved inadequate, contrary to my expectations, I favor such further legislation, within constitutional limitations, as will best promote and safeguard the interests of all the people.

Whether there is any common law which can be applied and enforced by the federal courts, cannot be determined by the president, or by a candidate for the presidency.

The determination of this question was left by the people in framing the constitution, to the judiciary and not to the executive. The supreme court of the United States has recently considered this question, and, in the case of the Western Union Telegraph company vs. The Call publishing company, to be found in the one hundred and eighty-first volume of the United States supreme court reports, at page 592, it decided that common law principles could be applied by United States courts in cases involving interstate commerce in the absence of United States statutes specifically covering the case. Such is the law of the land.

Reciprocity.

In my address to the notification committee I said that tariff reform is demanded by the best interests of both manufacturer and consumer. With equal truth it can be said that the benefits of reciprocal trade treaties would inure to both. That the consumer would be benefited is unquestionable. That the manufacturer would receive great benefit by extending the markets upon which he chiefly depends for his profits, hardly needs demonstration. His productive capacity has outgrown the home market. The very term "home market" has changed its significance. Once, from the manufacturer's point of view, it meant expansion; today the marvelous growth of our manufacturing industries has far exceeded the consumptive capacity of our domestic markets, and the term "home market" implies contraction, rather than expansion. If we would run our mills to their full capacity, thus giving steady employment to our workmen and securing to them and to the manufacturer the profits accruing from increased production, other markets must be found. Furthermore, when our manufacturers are dependent on raw materials in whole or part imported, it is vital to the extension of their markets abroad that they secure their materials on the most favorable terms.

Our martyred president, William McKinley, appreciated this situation. He pointed out in his last address to the people, that "we must make sensible trade arrangements if we shall extend the outlets for our increasing surplus." He said "a system which provides a mutual exchange of commodities is manifestly essential to the continued and healthful growth of our export trade. . . . The period of exclusiveness is past. The expansion of our trade and commerce is the pressing problem. Commercial wars are unprofitable. A policy of good will and friendly relations will prevent reprisals. Reciprocity treaties are in harmony with the spirit of the times, measures of retaliation are not." This argument was made in the interest of our manufacturers whose products, he urged, "have so multiplied that the problem of more markets requires our urgent and immediate attention." He had come to realize that the so-called "stand pat" policy must give way—that there must be a reduction of duties to enable our manufacturers to cultivate foreign markets. The last words of this president—who had won the affection of his countrymen—ought to be studied by every man who has any doubt of the necessity of a reduction in tariff rates in the interest of the manufacturer. They present with clearness a situation and a proposed remedy that prompted the provision in our platform which declares that "We favor liberal trade arrangements with Canada and with peoples of other countries where they can be entered into with benefit to American agriculture, manufactures, mining or commerce."

The responsibility of the Republican party in the federal senate, especially the responsible position of the president of the senate, has been emphasized by Mr. Hanna and Mr. Bryan in bitter and extensive addresses on the issue.

CONGRESSIONAL POSSIBILITIES.

THE Democrats are rather hopeful of gaining some congressmen in the coming election. There is considerable satisfaction, in a few districts, due to local causes which may enable the party of free trade to gain an extra man here and there.

But it is not believed that these contests will be sufficient to overturn the majority in the house, or to dispose Speaker Cannon from the chair which he holds with such ability and discretion.

Of course, even though the control of congress might pass into the hands of the Democracy, it would mean no difference in the matter of tariff legislation, for the senate and executive would block any free trade measure.

Nevertheless, a hostile house of representatives could do a great deal of injury to holding up beneficial Republican measures. It could hamper the Republican administration and be a thorn in the flesh on many occasions, especially in the Republican program of conservative progression, difficult, if not impossible, in many ways.

[illegible] Colorado [illegible] there is [illegible] can be safely Republican by electing these Republican congressmen. It may be that these three congressmen will be the means of securing a Republican majority in a house that would otherwise be Democratic. Colorado has always Republican votes to insure the election of these men. Let it not be said that the citizens of this state failed to do their duty when it was required of them.

EASTERN SENTIMENT ON COLORADO.

ON THE whole it is a good thing that the Rocky Mountain News is published daily in Colorado. It is making so many radical, absurd and rash statements and printing so many ridiculous extracts that seem to probably no one except that is making votes for the Republican party is ridiculous as the News.

Its continuous sneers upon Governor Peabody are so evident that it must inevitably swing sentiment in this state toward the chief executive.

Recently, for example, the News had the statement to the effect that "Nothing is more certain than that the success of Mr. Peabody would be resented everywhere as proof that the people of this state are without regard for real law and order. His election would be the signal for a series of delinquencies of the state as a place unfit to live in."

This is of the whole the most absurd and silly statement that the News has yet made. It is foolish because [illegible] pass muster with the mass of the people of Colorado.

The Gazette has taken pains to ascertain eastern sentiment from returning residents, and they with one accord declare that the people of the east believe that Governor Peabody was right and that his election is absolutely necessary for the future welfare of this state. Some [illegible] they believe that he only did his duty in suppressing violence and insurrection.

The governor's re-election, therefore, would be a distinct triumph for law and order, for the state and whatever else. His rights and property are secure.

COLORADO RESORTS.

THE Colorado Promotion and Publicity committee, that very attractive body of men, with headquarters in Denver, has just sent broadcast its latest production, an attractive booklet entitled "Colorado, Its Resorts and Resources." Printed on high tone paper, showing in an artistic manner, over a hundred pages of pictures and interesting reading matter, legibly printed on a fine quality of paper.

Unfortunately the time of the booklet is not very [illegible] there is a great deal said about the hotels and resorts, and lists and all sorts of information regarding the resorts of the state (which are too numerous to mention in a hotel) [illegible] a condensed table of the game laws and fish laws. All of the illustrations, which are reproductions from photographs, are clear and decidedly interesting.

No publication of the [illegible] a more thorough account of the [illegible] of this valuable [illegible] than this book of [illegible] matter.

WHERE FAIR MANAGERS BLUNDERED.

THE St. Louis exposition board must be composed by this [illegible] a serious blunder in the [illegible] of its day. It offered huge [illegible] for [illegible] in the [illegible] that the [illegible] be given, but it [illegible] to [illegible] It was doing [illegible] first. For [illegible] It made [illegible] to [illegible] and [illegible] have [illegible] and [illegible] are not [illegible] are [illegible] to the [illegible] hold [illegible]

[illegible] were out there [illegible] people. They [illegible] the streets back there. Lots of us have suspected something of the sort, but never imagined it was done purposely.

Public sentiment in Colorado is now running very strongly in favor of Governor Peabody. The sober second thought of people everywhere must be in favor of a man who is determined to keep the peace and the security of lives and of property.

An Emporia hotel man has been taking a straw vote on traveling men who visit his house, and finds that out of 200 all but three are going to vote for Roosevelt. It is not to be wondered at. Traveling men want to keep on traveling.

The chances are that General Kuropatkin will run when he is again beaten. He seems to get as much credit from a retreat as from a victory.

Mr. Bryan will stump Montana for Parker. But the judge will need more than those three votes even if Mr. Bryan is able to land them.

Wit and Wisdom

AN UNUSUAL PRAYER.

A southern director of divinity in New York on his vacation was speaking of unusual prayers he had heard. One was made by a young lawyer who, through humble piety or from a desire to advance his political fortunes by being identified with the church, bombarded the preacher to call on him for prayer in the weekly prayer meeting. Suspecting that politics and not piety was at the bottom of the lawyer's desire to pray in public the preacher did not call on him until one rainy night, when the attendance was slim.

When Brother M. being asked to lead in prayer, he [illegible] supplication. He [illegible] in a measured tone [illegible] petitions, personal and general, in which the divine guidance was desired. And it seemed as he would never stop. Finally, however, he hesitated as if he had forgotten anything else to say, and then, in a despairing tone of voice continued:

"In conclusion, your honor, I might mention many other things, but these will suffice for tonight. Amen."

"The story of your honor's prayer was told all over the state with a jeer, but it never interfered with the importance in politics because no one spoke of it, and he became a prominent personage of the state and is being mentioned for still higher honors."—New York Times.

ECONOMY IN DEATH.

"On the train on which I came down, two men sitting on the seat next to me were discussing the advantages and disadvantages of living in the country. One of them was a New Yorker and the other hailed from some country place.

"'And why do you live in the country, anyhow?' asked the man from New York.

"'Just to save money,' was the reply.

"'Why, are the expenses of living so very much less as to induce you to live in the backwoods?'

"'No, on the contrary, they are somewhat heavier.'

"'Then how on earth do you manage to save anything?'

"'Well, you see, it's this way. I have no theater or opera expenses now. That saves me on an average of $60 a season. No entertaining of friends to expensive dinners or suppers, $1,000 a year. No club dues, $75. No run or disruption of any kind, $2,000 a year. In that—

"'Say,' said the New Yorker, suddenly, turning the other on the frame, 'don't you think you would save money faster if you went out and died?'"—New York Globe.

WAYS OF TRAVELING TO HEAVEN.

Chauncey Depew recalls one of his latest stories to an employee of the Vanderbilt lines who once attended an old-fashioned camp meeting, says the New York Times. The speakers and sisters were giving their experience, each in the language of his own craft. First a sailor got up and told how he was going to heaven at the rate of 20 knots an hour, before a fair wind. He was followed by a railroad man, who told how he was on his way to heaven on a perfectly ballasted track, behind the newest type of engine, and was making sixty miles an hour, including stops. Finally, a decrepit old woman got up.

"Brothers and sisters," she said, "I have been walking there for the last twenty years, and my rheumatism is so bad that I can't walk very fast. But, brothers and sisters, let some of these fast years look out or I'll get there first. They may find their pillars if they crowd on too much steam."

"WRONG NUMBER."

The telephone bell in the uptown office rang briskly the other night, and Night Clerk Armstrong hastened to answer it.

"Hello, can you give me two rooms?" said the voice at the other end.

"Haven't anything but small rooms, and they're pretty cold," replied Armstrong.

"That's all right," came the answer.

"What size do you prefer?" asked Armstrong.

"Sleigh! Isn't this the Astor house?"

"No, it's the morgue."—New York Sun.

THE TRAGEDY.

A velvet-coated humble bee
Once scoured the plains of clover;
Now, stiff and swaying in the breeze,
His roaming days are over.

He stole a horsefly, so they said,
His brother policeman pinched him.
They took a spider's silken rope,
And on a tree nearby lynched him.

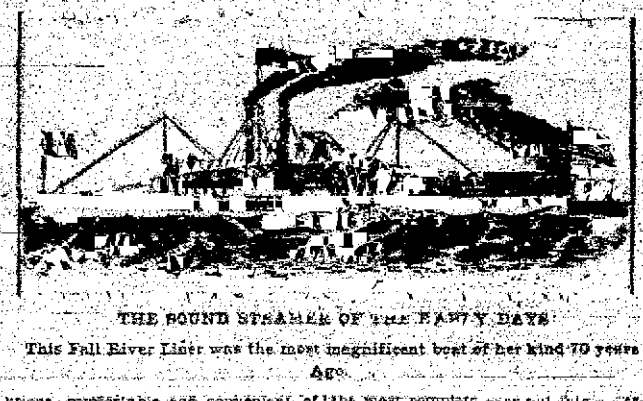
A Million and a Half For a Paddle-Wheeler

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—In the century which has passed since Robert Fulton sailed his famous craft up the Hudson river in 1807, a mighty inland water traffic has sprung up and from this traffic there has been gradually evolved a distinctively American type of vessel. Of this type the Providence, now rapidly nearing completion for the Fall River service of the Fall River shipyard on the southeastern shore of Boston harbor is the highest development. To the average traveler who is accustomed to regard a side wheel steamboat as a relic of a past age, it will be a surprise to learn that the new vessel, which is to cost a million and a half dollars, is to be equipped with paddle wheels instead of a propeller and that for traffic on calm waters, such as Long Island sound, the older type is still regarded by experts as the better. The new boat is the product of conditions which exist in no other country, and is the direct result of the great river steamer traffic begun nearly a hundred years ago.

After all, side wheels have been found better suited to boats of shallow draft, giving more quiet water at high rates of speed, and the steamers of the sound have grown to be among the most luxurious, comfortable and convenient of all the world's vessels.



THE SOUND STEAMER OF THE FAIRY DAYS.

This Fall River Liner was the most magnificent boat of her kind 70 years Ago.

It is of this type that the Fall River line's new steamer, Providence—the third of its name in this fleet—now well along toward completion at the Fore River fitting-out dock, is to be the finest example. She has sisters which are larger than she is, but none that can carry so many passengers, none so magnificently fitted up. Against the Lawrence's less than 500 tons she shows above, say the pioneer's 125-horsepower engines are pigmies in comparison with the newcomer's 5,500-horsepower equipment, and the mariner of today, easily paring off her 20 miles an hour, would soon leave far behind the little steamer of three-quarters of a century ago, which made a record trip of 18 hours from New York to Albany, a distance now covered in about half the time. This is the sort of steamer that has created, from so small beginnings, a traffic such as no other course of like length can boast; for in a single summer night 15,000 passengers pass up or down the 150 miles of the Long Island sound route, while the value of freight transported in the score of boats employed foots up to more than $30,000,000 in a year.

Even in the quaint little Livingston there was a suggestion of the overhanging gallery, the enclosed paddle-boxes, and the tiers of decks that mark the monsters of the present service; but now these distinctive characteristics of the side-wheeler's outward appearance are vanishing. The huge wheels of the Providence, 33 feet in diameter, are encased in the superstructure and the unsightly walking-beam is gone away with altogether by the use of inclined engines which are all below the center line of the crankshaft in the bottom of the vessel. Also, the heavy stanchions and framing above, and the strutts below, that were attractive features of the big steamboat in the days of wooden building, have disappeared from view with modern steel construction, and there is nothing now to mar the graceful lines of the great sweep from stem to stern.

In physical dimensions the Providence does not quite equal the Priscilla of the same line, which is the largest boat of her kind afloat. The Providence is 30 feet long and 65 feet wide over the guards—more than 10 feet larger than the United States cruiser Des Moines, whose place she took in the Fore River building berth, and just twice her breadth. The steamer is fitted with a double bottom [illegible] up to the waterline and [illegible] light compartments. Also, [illegible] the whole vessel is divided into watertight compartments by heavy watertight bulkheads, which at the last extra precaution [illegible] a collision bulkhead [illegible] deck, placed [illegible] the first deck and running back from the stem more than a third of the [illegible] length. The watertight bulkheads [illegible] without openings of any kind and with barely room enough between them [illegible] the ceiling for a man to crawl over. The depth of the bulkheads is ample to avert the possibility of a [illegible]. Although the Providence [illegible] to be built [illegible] than any of her predecessors, while she marks a striking advance for her class in that [illegible] to a "charity [illegible]" [illegible] a large part of the work done for the United States government.

Nature Sounds A Warning

Have you all "on edge?" Weak and irritable? No strength to do your work—no ambition even to attempt it?

These symptoms are Nature's warning. There is danger ahead.

Presently will come a more imperative alarm: sleeplessness, palpitation of the heart, despondency, dizziness, loss of memory and, maybe, a dry cough.

MARSHAL BAILEY ARRIVES TO HANDLE SITUATION

There May Be a Conflict of Jurisdiction When Assignee Reaches This City. All Quiet at Mill.

United States Marshal Bailey of Denver [illegible] Saturday night and took formal possession of the Telluride mill [illegible] Colorado City in behalf of Colorado creditors who made an application in the district court of the United States district court in Denver on Saturday.

Deputy Marshal Davis took formal possession and immediately took the mill, the papers and all other possessions of the General Mills company in the custody of the United States court officers. He returned to Denver last evening leaving Deputies Lester and [illegible] in charge at the mill while Marshal Bailey is in Denver today to the purpose of getting the situation in hand personally.

[illegible] as practically the marshal has taken out the order of the court [illegible] the mills. Deputy Marshal Davis [illegible] provided for the temporary [illegible] the insurance policies. The [illegible] absolutely closed down and will [illegible] further orders of the court.

[illegible] are eight cars of ore on the tracks [illegible] at the mill and these are held pending further orders of the court in Denver. There are many tons of ore on the bedding floor of the mill and these also will be there until further orders of the district court of the United States for the district of Colorado.

A question of jurisdiction will probably come up when Mr. Roeker the assignee appointed for the eastern creditors who supplied in New York arrives in Colorado. He will probably show his papers from the New York court and the marshal in charge at the mill will probably refuse to recognize them as the marshal is acting under orders of the district court with headquarters in Denver and [illegible] right or authority to recognize the court of New York.

The question of jurisdiction will [illegible] be taken up in the court of appeals and from that court to the United States court of appeals. A clash of jurisdiction is looked for but the Colorado court now has the property and the [illegible] there in the legal battle.

It is understood that Mr. Roeker will arrive in Colorado Springs today in company with Freeman, Fitzer and Marshal Bailey's presence in this city today may be due to the expected arrival of the assignee and the possible clash of jurisdiction when Mr. Roeker attempts to take charge of the mill under orders from the New York court.

MRS. CHARLES P. BENNETT

Funeral One of the Most Largely Attended and Most Impressive Held in City---Tribute by Dr. Brailsin.

One of the large[illegible] gatherings of mourners which has ever assembled in Colorado Springs was in attendance at the funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Charles P. Bennett yesterday afternoon.

Men and women in all walks of life were there to pay their last tribute of respect to the one whose life of unselfish devotion had made for bright[illegible] for others. The [illegible] conducted by the Rev. Edward Brailsin of the First Baptist church where Mrs. Bennett had long been a constant attendant was given over to a beautiful tribute to the memory of the departed. The church was adorned in her beautiful simplicity and her every component due to some [illegible] and her herself [illegible] among the more prominent characteristics that dwelt upon by her pastor.

A touching feature of the services was the singing of "Lead Kindly Light" by Miss [illegible] McCall [illegible] by her sister Miss [illegible] McCall, of the last.

A large delegation from the real estate association of which Mr. Bennett was a prominent member as well as [illegible] were present together with the large number of other mourners so that the church was inadequate to hold them who had assembled.

Following the funeral service at the house the remains were taken to Evergreen cemetery where they were lowered from view in a mass of flowers and evergreens. Dr. Brailsin read a simple and impressive service and the throng which had gathered around the bier to the grave turned sorrowfully homeward.

MINING SENSATION OF THE YEAR

TWENTY-TWO MILLION DOLLARS WORTH OF ORE TO HAVE BEEN TAKEN OUT OF HEINDYER MINE OF LEADVILLE.

Denver, Sept. 24.—The mining sensation of the year in the great strike in the Heindyer mine of Leadville, owned by John F. and George Campbell of Denver. Experts hold up both hands in astonishment at the figures. The body of ore developed in places extends for a width of 100 feet and a length of 600 feet, and is 30 feet deep in some of the stopes. The vein is a blanket or bulkhead ore deposit, varying from 20 feet down, but it is considered for that distance. A few assay results are astonishing even to the old miners. Assuming that the ore averages only $50 per ton, and it is the opinion of the Campbells that it will average much more than that, the gross value of the ore in sight is $22,500,000. The net returns to the owners will be at least one-half of the gross value.

The value in the Campbells will therefore be about $11,000,000. For weeks past the ore body extends every day for 60 feet in length from 300 to 600 feet, and built the mines not must be added to these figures. It is doubtful if in the whole history of mining such a valuable body ever was uncovered by so little gleaning.—Denver Daily Times.

LIZZIE G

Telluride, Sept. 24.—In the last issue of the Gazette appeared a short article from Sawpit district. The property and the name from various mines, but principally from the Lizzie G. Operations on this property were recently resumed, spelling the completion of an improved piece of development work which is expected to soon intersect a large ore body. If this deposit carries values which will enable the mine to pay a profit, the Lizzie G. will soon become a large and more profitable producer than it has been at any time in the past, including the palmy days of 1896-97, during which time more than $75,000 was produced. The Lizzie G. is being worked by Mr. O'Neil and other Ouray parties. It is owned by the estate of William H. Wheeler, who before his death was one of the best known characters in San Miguel county.

W. H. Van Dyke is developing another well known Sawpit property, with most encouraging prospects for encountering at an early date a deposit of interest that will prove handsome values.

Just above the Lizzie G. operators are driving a long tunnel, having for its object the intersection of the vein at a point which formerly contained the Lizzie G. It will be necessary to drive a tunnel 700 feet to reach the point desired. The work is now in the 600 foot mark, and is being steadily advanced by men being employed.—Daily Mining Record.

CHASE FOR GOLD STILL GOING ON

Hennessy and company, who have had a lease on the Josephine for several months, have within the past few days come into a good strike of a good grade of ore.

Lessee Hennessy and associates started to work on a stope of the vein and commenced immediately to drift north and south on a vein varying from a few feet thick, into pay ore, which is still being followed. The prospects are very flattering for a big strike of good pay ore, and that the vein will run a good distance.

About a year ago there was taken out some of the finest specimens of gold quartz ever found in this district, which sold for $1 per pound. The prospects are very flattering for a repetition of the same, and that the vein will run a good distance.

Colorado Boss.

Lessee Russell and associates, who are operating in possession the Colorado Boss on Gold hill, shipped out last month 16 cars of ore which gave returns of from two to three quarter. This ore was mined at a depth of 100 feet. It is the intention of the lessees to drain shaft to sink the shaft another 100 feet. At the present time there are 6 men employed.

The good showing of the last month is the same grade and quality of ore shipped from the Morning Glory during August, September will be another good month for the Morning Glory and the Colorado Boss, as there are being worked through the same shaft.

Lonaconing.

There was shipped from the Lonaconing last week. This lease is producing an average of one car of ore per week, which gives returns of $50 in gold to the lessee.

The ore is being mined both north and south of the shaft. The ore body continues to be a whaler. It is no less than four feet wide at the narrowest point, and 10 feet at its widest. The ore body has an average width of 10 feet. The shaft on the Lonaconing has only been sunk to a depth of 50 feet. It is the intention of Messrs. Russell and Sharpe to stand to sink the shaft another 100 feet in the very near future. The lease on this property has another eight months to go, and in the meantime the work is being pushed as rapidly as it is possible to do so in conformity with the conditions of the lease. The shaft will be sunk in 25 days, which is fast work, although not record-breaking by any means.—Cripple Creek.

MAYNARD FOR SUPERINTENDENT.

Boulder, Sept. 24.—The Eagle Rock Gold Mining & Reduction company is now putting up a $15,000 electric lighting and power plant on the property in the Sugar Loaf mining district, and will also enlarge its mill to double its present capacity. The mill will be equipped with 10 three-foot stamps, two tables, two jigs, three flumes, etc.

The company is now getting out ore and is constructing an aerial tramway from the mine to the mill. There is plenty of ore in sight and indications point to the Eagle Rock company joining the dividend payers in the not far distant future.—Daily Mining Record.

TIN CUP DISTRICT

Gold Cup Machinery to Be Used in Driving Tunnel Into East Gold Hill.

The Gold Cup Gold Mining Company, of Willow Creek district, is to be commended in driving a long tunnel in a southerly direction into East Gold hill to cut the Stone Mark, Dubois and Lessee fissure veins.

Charles Hershey, who struck a big vein of ore from it in the first level in the Gold Cup group in between Saints, The ore was encountered at a depth of 100 feet in the same two feet of clean pyrite, quite heavy with gold and a streak of copper in short time assays to 20 per cent.

The Bonanza Boy tunnel No. 1 is to be driven by Sexton and Thomas for the Gold Cup, which will intersect the Bonanza belonging to Thomas, Henderson and Wolfe, Sexton, H. B. Stevens, John Norquist and the Lucky property of the Marston estate.

H. L. Stone of the M. & M. group, located on the claim Denver, Royal Oak lands and Taylor claim, and John Wilson Mining company's group on the east, has cut a vein varying from 10 to 30 inches wide, 45 per cent lead and 18 to gold.

On the Gold Treasure, two miles south of town, Roberts and Wallace have cut a fissure vein, the assays of which run as high as 6 ounces in gold per ton.

The Willow side, near Indian mountain in Willow basin, is showing up well in gravel and carbonate ores. Parties are now negotiating for these claims with a view to working them.—Daily Mining Record.

PROGRESS AT THE STANLEY

Plant Is Running Like Air Pervades the Mine.

Mr. Peter Hooper, superintendent of the Stanley mine, is working a great force in retimbering the north level. Every stope of the old timber is being replaced and repaired with new. The entire length of the tunnel will be repaired in the same substantial way. The workmen now are in about 1100 feet. The ground is standing up well and good progress is made. Much of the timber removed have good sound or more years, so that the repairs now being made will probably keep the timber sets for as many more years. The repairs upon the mine have been mostly clearing up in the lower stopes in the manager's house is added and an attractive addition to the office building.

WHITE TENTS OF PROSPECTORS DOTTING HILLS OF HEMATITE

New strikes continue to be made at Hematite, the new gold mining district recently opened up near Salida, and every thing points to the ultimate success of the district.

Two new strikes have been added within the last three days. Peter Larson and partners, working a bonanza on some patented property about a mile west of Hematite, on what is known as the Harrison lode, several weeks ago, and has been diligently working ever since, finally succeeded in the prospecting was rewarded in disclosing an extra fine formation of ore in the breast of the tunnel which he was driving. This vein carries all of business pervades the town. Local mining men with much experience of every sort, from those mines of comparation for extensive operations in the great old Stanley—Colorado Springs Mining Gazette.

FALL WORK BEING PUSHED AT SILVERTON

LARGE BODIES OF MEN AND MANY MACHINES TURNING OUT TONS OF CRUDE ORE IN THE SAN JUAN COUNTRY.

Silverton, Colo., Sept. 24.—In the southern portion of the San Juan country, quite a respectable force is being employed in developing the Green Mountain Mining & Milling company's mine, in the Cunningham Gulch district, operating on the gulch the Gold Tunnel and Railway company is in the lead and is employing 24 men to good advantage. The aggregate output of the company's mines amounts to 50 tons of crude ore per day. Safety of this product is a very support of an exceedingly high grade and is shipped to the smelter, the greater bulk of the product, which is lead and copper, going through the mill without sorting and resulting in a high grade concentrate. Seven machines are being worked by the company.

Hercules Shipping.

Monday last, at the rate of 10 cars per day. The product of the mines which is an excellent quality of gray copper and steel galena, is being hauled to the shipping platform of the R. G. Northern, a distance of one and one-half miles, by contractor Whitbeck. It is asserted by those who know that the mines is shipping an ore body of from 12 feet wide, seven or eight feet of which is shipping ore of a good pay quality, the balance being adapted to concentration.

It is estimated by Manager George Dibb that the output of Sunset to the Fairview of the Fairview-Thunder group on Sultan mountain, fairly and easterly under the bell, as about 400 feet from the surface, is worth 50 feet of its destination. Improvements are rapidly and may consider here the recently been encountered of late in a leader from the said proper.

On the Blizzard Group.

Sullivan and Carver are doing some [illegible] work on their Blizzard group in Dry gulch. They have also made three new locations. In the Blizzard group there is a big body of ore in sight which, for working at a profit, requires the installation of some expensive power, as right on the ground. In this claim the huge body of ore is sight, principally carbonates of lead and copper, some of which would pay to consider working, can be pulled as a single.—Daily Mining Record.

BIG BODY OF IRON PYRITES

The 6th lode at the mouth of Spring gulch, near Clear creek, will be opened soon quite largely. It is an immense vein of ore of a character that is particularly acceptable at the smelter and here—[illegible] Thanks to gold. The railroad and creek are very near and make possible very economical working and handling of the product. One of a number of such in that section that must become important factors soon in the local mining field.—Idaho Springs Mining Gazette.

GOOSEBERRIES AND A CAT.

Another judge, while expressing [illegible] assert the dignity of the bench, [illegible] be considered violated by a newspaper [illegible] entering the court room without removing his hat, himself received a [illegible] a rather unexpected reply. The offender was an elderly man who had entered the room with his [illegible] slouch hat pulled down over his eyes. He was walking about, apparently [illegible] in the rear of the room when he attracted the attention of the judge who ordered the offending hat to be removed. The old man, not hearing the remark. Whereupon the new trial judge ordered the bailiff to bring that man to the bar of the court.

The judge proceeded to [illegible] the offender vituperatively and forcibly, after [illegible] the culprit, in a brief speech, the judge concluded by saying: "A man of your age, experience and apparent intelligence ought to know better than to commit that in a court room." The old man, dazed with [illegible] and, of its class, without a word, handed his card to the bailiff, turned and walked slowly out of the room and market slowly out of the room.

Former Judge Pays Fine.

Each party to a trial recently in progress was represented by [illegible] are clothed with a dignity and a [illegible] are relieved from their former status that at least equals that of [illegible] judges. One of counsel in this case is noted for a pompousness of style and arrogance of manner. The [illegible] of the school and high [illegible] lawyers at the bar is characterized by his simplicity in manner and [illegible] and an exceeding degree of modesty. Yet these very characteristics, together with his Titanic physical proportions and his professional [illegible] ability, oftimes lend a crushing force to a comparatively mild remark.

In this case the pompous one, by a course of petty quarrelsome and [illegible] had aroused the ire of his opponent to such an extent that the latter hurled at the former an opprobrious epithet. The trial judge fined the offending lawyer $100 for contempt of court. The trial resulted favorably to the pompous lawyer, who thereupon moved the Court to remit the fine.

The judge was willing to grant the motion, but added as a condition to remitting the fine that the offender withdraw the objectionable remark. Everything happy, the proper apology was forthcoming. When the culprit found himself up to his great height to address the court. Seemingly by accident he turned the case upon the victim of his outburst, and, raising him deliberately from head to foot, said, with a kind of mixture between a growl and a chuckle: "I guess I'll pay the fine" and sat down.

LEGAL NOTICES.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT.

Notice is hereby given that at the general election to be held on the eighth day of November, A. D. 1904, there will be submitted to the qualified electors of the state of Colorado the question of amending the constitution of said state.

(S. B. No. 9, by Senator Taylor.)

AN ACT

TO SUBMIT TO THE QUALIFIED ELECTORS OF THE STATE OF COLORADO AMENDMENTS TO SECTIONS FIVE (5), SIX (6), SEVEN (7), AND EIGHT (8), OF ARTICLE SIX (VI) OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF COLORADO, CONCERNING THE SUPREME COURT.

Be It Enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Colorado:

Section 1. There shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the state of Colorado, at the next general election for members of the general assembly, for their approval or rejection, the following amendments to the constitution of the state of Colorado, which, when ratified by a majority of those voting thereon, shall be valid as a part of the constitution, namely:

Section 1 of article 6 of the constitution of the state of Colorado shall be amended so as to read as follows:

Sec. 5. The supreme court shall consist of seven judges, who may sit en banc or in two or more departments as the court may from time to time determine. In case said court shall sit in departments each of said departments shall have the full power and authority of said court in the determination of causes, the issuing of writs and the exercise of all powers authorized by this constitution, or provided by law, subject to the general control of the court sitting en banc, and such rules and regulations as the court may make, but no decision of any department shall become the judgment of the court unless concurred in by at least three judges, and no case involving a construction of the constitution of this state or of the United States, shall be decided except by the court en banc.

Sec. 7. Section six (6) of article six (VI) of the constitution of the state of Colorado shall be amended to read as follows:

Sec. 6. The judges of the supreme court, except as herein provided, shall be elected by the electors of the state at large.

Sec. 8. Section seven (7) of said article six (VI) of the constitution of the state of Colorado shall be amended to read as follows:

Sec. 7. The term of office of the judges of the supreme court, hereafter elected, except as in this article otherwise provided, shall be ten years.

Sec. 9. Section eight (8) of said article six (VI) of the constitution of the state of Colorado shall be amended to read as follows:

Sec. 8. No person of the judges of the court of appeals in whose term expires in April, 1905, shall be a candidate.

On the first Tuesday of April, 1905, the court of appeals shall go out of office and the judges of said court of appeals, in the order of their terms of office, as now fixed by law, shall be assigned to the supreme court, in the order of their terms of office, as now fixed by law, and the term of office of the judges of said court of appeals shall cease.

Sec. 10. The term of office of the judges of the supreme court, in office at the time of the going into effect of this amendment, by law existing at the time of their election, the governor shall [illegible] and by and with the advice and consent of the senate appoint two judges of the supreme court, whose term of office shall begin on the first Wednesday of April, 1905, and expire on the second Tuesday of January, 1907.

Provided also, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent the Republican assembly from passing the law of electing judges of the supreme court and from extending or shortening the terms of office as provided in Art. [illegible], section 15 of the constitution of the state.

The judge in the district at large to succeed a judge whose term shall expire in April, 1905, shall be elected at the general election in January, 1905, and the term of office of that judge of the supreme court whose term expires on the second Tuesday in January, 1907, and the term of office of the judge of the supreme court whose term expires on the second Tuesday in January, 1909, shall be extended to the second Tuesday in January, 1909, and the term of office of the judge of the supreme court whose term expires on the second Tuesday in January, 1911, shall be extended to the second Tuesday in January, 1911, and the term of office of the judge of the supreme court whose term shall expire in April, 1905, shall be extended to the second Tuesday in January, 1907

DIED—Miss Anna Hetherington died yesterday at the family residence, 414 East Platte avenue. The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon from the house, Rev. C. B. Wilcox, pastor of the First Methodist church officiating. The remains will be shipped to Peoria, Ill., for burial.

BOY PICKED UP—The police picked up a colored lad named Clarence Massey on South Tejon street shortly before midnight last night. The boy is wanted by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Massey, of 424 West Huerfano street, from whom he ran away last Thursday morning. He is thirteen years of age and refuses to say why he left his parents, or to give his whereabouts since leaving them.

TALLY-HO RIDE—Forty members of "A Girl from Dixie" company, which is to appear tonight at the Opera house, took a tally-ho trip through the Garden of the Gods yesterday. The company arrived from Denver yesterday morning in order to take in the beautiful sights of Colorado Springs and its suburbs. Many of the young ladies of the company had never before visited Colorado Springs and were in consequence delighted by the incomparable scenery.

STARTED TO RAISE A "ROUGH HOUSE" IN JAIL.

E. L. House was arrested yesterday by the police department for drunkenness. Soon after being placed behind the bars he became violent and the officers in charge of the jail thought that a fight had started among the prisoners and hurried to the jail. When the real cause of the disturbance was ascertained House was separated from the rest of the prisoners and confined in a private cell. Here he finally quieted down and went to sleep. He will be brought before the police court this morning.

ARRAIGNED FOR ALLEGED THEFT OF WATCH FROM WOMAN.

Alexander Johnson was arrested yesterday by Detective Shults on the complaint of a woman who charged the man with stealing her watch. The woman promised to appear before a justice this morning and swear to a complaint against him so he was placed in the county jail awaiting the swearing out of the warrant.
